Everyone should read "The High Cost of Free Parking". It's a seminal book, one of the first published, that undermines motornormativity, the notion that building transportation around cars is the forgone default, rather than a terrible, terrible choice.

One of his pithy lines is something like: "It's unfair to have cities where cars park for free and people can't afford housing".

Drive a bike a bit more often and cars a bit less. You'll be healthier and happier, and so will our world.
